Markets

Global equities markets recovered last week, on the heels of the US-China 90-day truce on trade, also supported by strong earnings (especially in Europe). Trade policy uncertainty remains awaiting EU-US, US-Japan and other potential agreements as well as the outcome of the US-China truce. Regional markets also posted gains, with DFM gaining the most (supported by better-than-expected earnings results). The dollar strengthened in the beginning of the week and ended on a positive note, though it is still down by 2% compared to April 2nd (when "Liberation Day" tariffs were announced); both euro and GBP were lower on the week. Oil prices gained compared to the week before, even as daily movements were quite volatile (with concerns about oversupply given OPEC+ output hike and a potential US-Iran nuclear deal), while gold posted its largest weekly loss (around 4%) since end-Nov.

- Producer price index in the US fell by 0.5% mom in Apr (Mar: 0%), dragged down by the decline in cost of services (-0.7%, the largest drop since Dec 2009); airline fares were down 1.5% and portfolio management fees plunged 6.9%. In yoy terms, PPI eased to 2.4% (from 2.7%) while core PPI eased to 3.1% yoy (Mar: 4.0%).
- US industrial production was flat in Apr (Mar: -0.3% mom), with manufacturing down (-0.4%, reversing Mar's 0.4% gain) alongside mining (-0.3% vs +1.1% in Mar) while utilities output accelerated (3.3%).
- US clocked in a budget surplus USD 258bn in Apr, the first monthly surplus of fiscal year 2025 that started in Oct and the second-largest monthly surplus. The surplus was due to "large individual tax deposits":

- income taxes were the largest revenue contributor, USD 537bn, while customs duties rose to USD 15.6bn (more than double USD 6.3bn collected a year ago). On the expenditures side, the largest items were Social Security (USD 132bn), net interest (USD 89bn) and Medicare (USD 82bn).
- Retail sales inched up by 0.1% mom in Apr (Mar: 1.7%), as consumers demand was dampened by the introduction of tariffs. Sales at auto dealerships fell (-0.1% after the 5.5% surge as consumers frontloaded vehicle purchases) while receipts at food services & drinking places ticked up by 1.2% (Mar: +3.0%). Sales held steady at 5.2% in yoy terms.
- NFIB small business optimism index in the US slipped to 95.8 in Apr (Mar: 97.4) and the uncertainty index (at 92) remained much higher than the historical average (68). The survey also showed that the share of small businesses reporting vacant job openings they were unable to fill dropped in Apr to the lowest since Jan 2021 (34%).
- NY Empire State manufacturing index slipped to -9.2 in May (Apr: -8.1): while new orders and shipments turned positive (to 7.0 and 3.5 respectively), supply availability and employment dropped further (-11.4 and -5.1 respectively).
- Philadelphia Fed manufacturing index improved in May, up to -4.0 from -26.4: new orders index turned positive (7.5 from -34.2) while shipments fell further (-13.0 from -9.1) alongside price indices surging to the most since Jun 2022.
- The Michigan consumer sentiment index declined for the fifth straight month, falling to 50.8 in May (Apr: 52.2), the lowest reading since Jun 2022. The one- and five-year inflation expectations ticked up to 7.3% (the highest since Nov 1981, and from 6.5% in Apr) and 4.6% (the highest level since Mar 1991, and from Apr's 4.4%) respectively.

- Housing starts grew by 1.6% mom to 1.361mn in Apr, with single-family starts falling 2.1% to a 9-month low of 927k. Building permits fell by 4.7% mom to 1.412mn in Apr, with permits for single-family housing dropping by 5.1% to 922k. Overall, data seems to indicate housing market weakness in coming months (partly due to higher material costs and rising economic uncertainty tempering demand).
- Initial jobless claims in the US stood unchanged at 229k in the week ended May 9 and the 4-week average inched up by 3.25k to 230.5k. Continuing jobless claims increased by 9k to 1.881mn in the week ended May 2.

Europe:

- Industrial production in the euro area grew by 2.6% mom and 3.6% yoy in Mar (Feb: 1.1% mom and 1% yoy). Production of non-durable consumer goods increased at the fastest pace in Mar (15.7% yoy), followed by energy (2.2%) and durable consumer goods (1.1%).
- The harmonised index of consumer prices in Germany inched down to 2% yoy in Apr (Mar: 2.3%), the lowest since Sep 2024. Inflation rate in Germany stood at 2.1% in Apr (Mar: 2.2%), with energy prices contributing a downward effect (-5.4%) while food prices and services inflation ticked up (2.8% and 3.9% respectively).
- Producer price index in Germany eased to 0.8% yoy in Apr (Mar: 1.3%): higher prices were reported for food, beverages and tobacco (4.6%), non-ferrous ores, non-ferrous metals and non-ferrous semi-finished metal products (21.3%) alongside a dip in wholesale prices of solid fuels and mineral oil products (-8.4%).
- German ZEW economic sentiment index surged to 25.2 in May (Apr: -14), supported by optimism about the new government, a stable inflation rate and "some progress in the tariff disputes" though the current situation worsened slightly (-82 from -81.2). ZEW economic

- sentiment index in the eurozone also increased strongly to 11.6 in May (Apr: -18.5) and the current economic situation index ticked up by 8.5 points to -42.4.
- In Q1, UK GDP grew by 0.7% qoq and 1.3% yoy (Q4: 0.1% qoq and 1.5% yoy), with the increase driven by the services sector and an increase in investment alongside a jump in exports (to get ahead of the Trump tariffs). GDP grew by 0.2% mom in Mar (Feb: 0.5%). Industrial production in the UK fell by 0.7% yoy (Feb: 0.4%), the sharpest fall since Oct 2024, as manufacturing fell 0.8% (from Feb's 0.5% gain) and mining & quarrying continued its drop (-8.4% from -6.6%).
- UK unemployment rate ticked up to 4.5% (from 4.4%), the highest since the three months to Aug 2021. Average earnings excluding bonus rose by 5.6% yoy in the three months to Mar (Dec-Feb: 5.9%), the lowest since the Sep-Nov 2024 period, as wages in both the private and public sector slowed (5.6% and 5.5% respectively). Real wages (adjusted for inflation) grew by 1.8%, the weakest since Feb 2024.
- UK like-for-like retail sales grew by 6.8% yoy in Apr (Mar: 0.9%), the fastest pace in more than three years, with both food and non-food sales accelerating sharply (by 8.2% and 6.1% respectively).

Asia Pacific:

- China's money supply grew by 8% yoy in Apr (Mar: 7%) while total outstanding yuan loans rose at a record-low pace of 7.2%. New loans plunged to CNY 280bn (Mar: CNY 3.64trn), with banks extending a total CNY 10.06trn in Jan-Apr (vs CNY 10.19trn a year ago).
- Japan's GDP shrank at a 0.7% annualised rate in Q1 (Q4: +2.2%), with exports falling 0.6% qoq and domestic demand up 0.6%. In yoy terms, GDP was up by 1.7%, the fastest growth since Q1 2023 (Q4: 1.3%).
- •Industrial production in Japan grew by 0.2% mom and 1%

- yoy in Mar (prelim: -1.1% mom), supported by chemicals (12.5% from -1.0%), production machinery (7.1% from 8.3%) and transport equipment excluding motor vehicles (6.6% from -9%). Separately, machine tool orders in Japan grew for the seventh consecutive month, up by 7.7% yoy in Apr (Mar: 11.4%). Domestic orders fell by 5.4% (to JPY 34,425) while foreign orders increased by 13.3% (to JPY 95,781).
- Inflation in India eased to 3.16% in Apr (Mar: 3.34%), the lowest since Jul 2019, below the RBI's midpoint target of 4%. Food prices rose by 1.78%, the lowest since Oct 2021, while prices were unchanged for housing (3.0%). Wholesale price inflation slipped to 0.85% in Apr (Mar: 2.05%), with food prices posting the smallest uptick in 18 months (2.55% from Mar's 4.66%) and manufacturing prices easing to a 3-month low (2.62% from 3.07%).
- India's trade deficit widened to USD 26.42bn in Apr (Mar: USD 21.54bn), the highest deficit since Nov 2024, due to a surge in imports (19.1% yoy and 2.2% mom to USD 64.91bn). The growth in imports outweighed exports uptick (9% yoy to USD 38.49bn).

Bottom line: Highlight of last week was the Trump visit to the Gulf region, wherein deals in the energy & tech/ AI front dominated, with a smattering of airplane purchases. Many details are still patchy and the time from headline announcement to implementation might be long. There are some positives from the US-China truce: with the latter issuing rare earths export permits again and US lowering tariffs on small packages (to 30%). The fact remains that it is only a pause and not a finalised deal, which begs the question as to what happens at the end of the 90-days? Already, US retail sales data is showing a slower pace of buying and US companies such as Walmart are warning of rise in prices due to tariffs. This does not bode well for the economy in Q2, also given dampened consumer sentiment survey results. The Fed will be in a quandary between higher inflation and a slowing economy, potential stagflation on the cards.

Regional Developments

- President Trump's visit to the Gulf last week highlights the build-up of GCC's "soft power"— be it the involvement of the UAE, Saudi, Qatar and Oman in leading the negotiations for a ceasefire in Gaza & Ukraine (including release of prisoners), support for the new Syrian government or the ongoing negotiations with Iran. More than USD 1.4trn in investment pledged by Saudi, Qatar & UAE. For the US, these deals are a way of countering China's influence in the region.
